DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's election with traverse of "natural oils" and the process claims 1-24 in Paper No. 6 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that there was no holding of lack of unity in the international phase of the examination- PCT and the examiner should abide by such findings. The statute 35USC 372(b) which grants explicit authority for the Commissioner to revisit lack of unity issues during the national phase of a PCT filed application. The statute however only relates to international applications designating the US but not originating in the US. The instant case originates in the US and the statute is silent as to this situation. The Examiner holds that such language of the above statute and 37CFR 1.499, and 37 CFR1.475 do not prohibit the examiner to revisit the question of a proper lack of unity. Applicant points to claim 8 – not an independent claim- to support a position that the common technical feature of claims 1 and 25 are that there is a combination of a sulfide mineral collector with an oil. Clearly claim 1 does not have such a combined technical feature (as applicant relies on claim 8 for the feature) and this evidence that a holding of lack of unity is proper. Rule 13.1 does not exclude the possibility of a species lack of unity. Applicant is entitled to present a claim having many different alternative embodiments in a single claim – see claim 1. Such claim may be subjected to a lack of unity review. Applicant intends “natural” and “synthetic” to represent different chemical entities and therefore can be considered in a review of lack of unity.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-3, 7-18, 24, and 32-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement.

The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. It is unclear where in the original specification that the claim language regarding “by air-injection” froth flotation is located.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-3, 12-18, 24 and 32-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Harris (US 2120217). Harris includes every aspect of claim 1 and 24 save for the air injection (silent) and the amount of natural oil employed in the process. Harris employs 0.4 pounds per ton which is about 180 g/t which might reasonably be interpreted as slightly higher than "less than about 100 g/t" as recited in claims 1 and 24. Harris further recites at pg. 6, col. 2, lines 23-35 that the amount of oil employed in the instant invention of Harris's is "not particularly critical" and that economics demands one employ the least amount possible while still being sufficient to achieve the intended benefit. Clearly, less is better and to so reduce the amount of oil employed would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

5. Claims 4-6 and 19-23 are withdrawn as non-elected.
